24. Restraint Order.

- (1) Where the enforcement authority applies to the Court for a restraint order in accordance with this section, and the Court is satisfied having regard to the facts and beliefs set out in the affidavit in support of the application and any other relevant matter that there are reasonable grounds to suspect that subsection (1)(a) is satisfied or there are reasonable grounds to believe that any one of subsections (1)(b) and (1)(c) are satisfied, it may make an order in accordance with subsection (2) —

- (a) where the relevant person has not been convicted of an offence, that he committed an offence and that the person is either the subject of a criminal investigation or has been charged with an offence;

- (ii) the delay involved in obtaining such approval is likely to result in a significant diminution in the value of the property; or
 - (iii) the cost of obtaining such approval would, in his opinion, be disproportionate to the value of the property concerned;
 - (d) where the property consists, wholly or partly, of a business —
 - (i) employing, or terminating the employment of, persons in the business;
 - (ii) doing anything that is necessary or convenient for carrying on the business on a sound and lawful commercial basis; and

- (5) A restraint order in respect of property may be made whether or not there is any evidence of risk of the property being disposed of, or otherwise dealt with, in such a manner as would defeat the operation of this Act.

25. Notice of Restraint Order.

Where a restraint order is made, the enforcement authority shall, within two working days of the making of the order, or such other period as the Court may direct, give notice of the order to persons affected by the order.

- (1) This section applies —
 - (a) if a restraint order under section 24 has been made; or

- (b) in respect of an offence under the law of a foreign jurisdiction in relation to acts or omissions which, had they occurred in The Bahamas, would have constituted an offence in The Bahamas and a request for assistance has been made by the foreign jurisdiction for the restraint, confiscation or civil forfeiture of property relating to such acts or omissions, or for information or evidence that may be relevant to the proceeds, benefits or instrumentalities of the offence.
- (2) Where the enforcement authority believes that property in which the relevant person has an interest is situated in a foreign jurisdiction, it may request assistance from that foreign jurisdiction to enforce the restraint order in that foreign jurisdiction.
- (3) The appropriate authority of a Member of the United Nations may request assistance and such request shall be facilitated by the Competent Authority save if any grounds of refusal exist at common law inclusive of breaches of natural justice.

 - (ii) the relevant person's reasonable, proportionate and specified expenses in defending any related criminal charge or proceedings under this Act.

 - (d) the application must be supported by evidence which explains how those expenses shall be incurred.
- (4) Where a person is required to give a statement pursuant to subsection (2)(c), the person is not excused from making the statement on the ground that the statement might incriminate the person, or make the person liable to a confiscation order, benefit recovery order, extended benefit recovery order or a penalty.
- (5) Where a person makes a statement pursuant to an order under subsection (2)(c), anything disclosed in any statement and any information, document or thing obtained as a direct or indirect consequence of the statement is not admissible against the person in any criminal proceeding except a proceeding in respect of the falsity of the statement.

28. Exclusion of property from Restraint Order.

- (1) Where a person who is not the relevant person has an interest in property that is subject to a restraining order makes an application to the Court to exclude his interest from the order, the Court may grant the application if it is satisfied —
 - (a) that the property interest which is the subject of the application is not property in which the relevant person has an interest.
 - (b) that the property is not or does not represent proceeds or an instrumentality, and that the applicant was not, in any way, involved in the commission of the offence in relation to which the restraining order was made;
 - (c) where the applicant acquired the interest before the commission of the offence, that the applicant did not know that the relevant person would use, or intended to use, the property in or in connection with the commission of the offence;

- (d) where the applicant acquired the interest at the time of or after the commission or alleged commission of the offence, that the interest was acquired in circumstances which would not arouse a reasonable suspicion that the property was proceeds or an instrumentality of crime.
- (2) For the purposes of this section, value of the applicant's interest shall be in proportion to the lawful consideration the applicant provided to the relevant person.
 - (3) Where a relevant person who has interest in property, that is subject to a restraint order, applies to the Court to exclude his interest from the order, the Court shall grant the application only if it is satisfied —
 - (a) in the case of an order that secures property for a confiscation order, that the property is not the proceeds or an instrumentality of crime or terrorist property; and
 - (b) in the case of an order that secures property for a benefit recovery order, or extended benefit recovery order, that a benefit recovery order or extended benefit recovery order cannot be made against the relevant person.
 - (4) Where property is restrained to secure it for the purposes of a confiscation order, a benefit recovery or an extended benefit recovery order, a Court may decline to exclude property from restraint under this section unless satisfied that each of the relevant provisions for exclusion apply.

- (1) On application by the authorised officer, the Court may make an order for the enforcement authority to search for and seize property that is the

- (2) An order under this section may also grant power to a person named in the order to enter any premises to which the order applies, and to use all necessary force to effect such entry.
- (3) If during the course of searching under an order granted under this section, the person named in the order finds anything that he believes on reasonable grounds —
 - (a) will afford evidence as to the commission of an offence; or
 - (b) is of a kind which could have been included in the order had its existence been known of at the time of application for the order,he may seize that property or thing and the seizure order shall be deemed to authorise such seizure.

Where a Court has appointed a Receiver in relation to property, he shall not be liable for any loss or claim arising out of the exercise of powers conferred upon him by the order or this Part unless the Court is satisfied that —

- (b) the loss or claim arose by reason of the negligence or reckless or intentional misconduct of the person appointed.

32. Duration of Restraint Order.

Unless the Court otherwise orders in the interest of justice, a Court which makes a restraint order pursuant to this Part upon the basis that a person is the subject of an investigation shall discharge the order upon application if the person is not charged within three years of the date of the original order or up to the conclusion of any proceedings commenced, whichever is the later.

having regard to the public interest in the confiscation of the instrumentalities of crime.

- (5) In determining whether property is—

 - (b) proceeds, the Court may infer that the property was derived, obtained or realised as a result of or in connection with the commission of the offence, if it was acquired or possessed by the relevant person, during or after the commission of the offence, unless the relevant person satisfies the Court that such inference is inappropriate;

- (3) For purposes of subsections (1)(c) and (1)(d), the value of the applicant's interest shall be in proportion to the consideration the applicant provided to the relevant person.
- (4) An application under this section may be made whether or not the interest in property the subject of the application is or was the subject of a restraint order.

- (7) The Court shall require the relevant person who has been served with a copy of a statement under subsection (6) to respond to each and every allegation in it and, in so far as he does not accept any allegation, to indicate on oath any facts upon which he proposes to rely.

- (8) The Court may treat the relevant person's failure to respond or to indicate the facts upon which he will rely as his acceptance of every allegation in the statement other than —
- (a) an allegation regarding whether he complied with the requirement; and
 - (b) an allegation that he has benefited from the offence or that he obtained any property or advantage as a result of or in connection with the commission of the offence.
- (9) For the purposes of this section “relevant appeal” where used in relation to a benefit recovery order made in consequence of a person's conviction means—

 - (b) where an appeal against a person's conviction or against the making of a benefit recovery order is lodged, the date on which the appeal lapses in accordance with the rules of Court or is finally determined, whichever is the later.

42. Determination of the value of benefit.

- (1) For the purposes of this Part, the value of the benefit derived by a relevant person from an offence and other criminal activities may include —

 - (c) the value of any service, financial or pecuniary advantage provided for the relevant person or another person, at the request or by the direction of the relevant person, as a result of or in connection with the commission of the offence; or
 - (d) unless the Court is satisfied that the increase was unrelated to the commission of the offence, any increase in the value of property in which the relevant person has an interest in the period beginning immediately before the commission of the offence and ending at the date the Court makes its order, but does not include any property confiscated under this Part.

- (2) In calculating, for the purposes of a benefit recovery order, the value of benefit derived by the relevant person from the commission of an offence —
 - (a) any expenditure in connection with the commission of the offence shall not be excluded; and
 - (b) the Court shall make such adjustment as is necessary to prevent a benefit from being counted more than once.
- (3) Where the benefit derived by the relevant person was in the form of illegal property, the Court may, in determining the value of that property, have regard to evidence given by a law enforcement officer or other person whom the Court considers has expert knowledge of the value of that type of property.

43. Extended Benefit Recovery Orders.

- (1) An extended benefit recovery order is an order in personam for the relevant person to pay an amount not restricted to the benefit obtained from the offence for which he has been convicted.
- (2) Upon the relevant person's conviction, the enforcement authority may apply to the Court for an extended benefit recovery order under this section.
- (3) Where an application is made under subsection (2), any order made must take into account any amount realised by virtue of any order made against the relevant person under any previous order made under this Part.
- (4) Where an application under subsection (2) is made, the Court may assess the benefit derived by the relevant person in accordance with subsection (7) if it is satisfied that —
 - (a) the relevant person has been convicted of an offence which might carry a sentence of imprisonment;
 - (b) the offence upon which the application is based is the third such offence of which the relevant person has been convicted, either in relation to the current proceeding or at any other time within ten years preceding the relevant person's conviction for the serious crime that is the subject of the application before the Court.
- (5) An extended benefit recovery order shall not be made if the value of the benefit is less than one thousand dollars and the Minister may from time to time by regulation vary this minimum monetary amount.
- (6) For the purpose of making an extended benefit recovery order under this section, the Court may have regard to evidence received in the course of the proceedings against the relevant person.

- (7) In assessing the value of the benefit derived by the relevant person for the purposes of an extended benefit recovery order, the Court shall, subject to subsection (8), include —
- (a) any property transferred to the relevant person at any time after the commencement date, at the earliest time he or she appears to have held it;
 - (b) any property held by the relevant person at any time after the date of his conviction for the present offence, or at the earliest time he appears to have held it; and
 - (c) all expenditure and gifts made by the relevant person after the commencement day of the order.

- (9) The Court shall not treat property as benefit specified property or expenditure if the relevant person proves upon the balance of probabilities that —

 - (b) in the case of an expenditure or gift caught by the act, the property expended or gifted was lawfully acquired and was not derived or realised, directly or indirectly, by any person from any criminal conduct; or
 - (c) to include any item of property, expenditure or gift would pose a significant risk of injustice.
- (10) Where the enforcement authority has applied to the Court for an extended benefit recovery order, it shall provide to the Court, and serve upon the relevant person, a statement setting out an assessment of the value of the extended benefit obtained by the relevant person.
- (11) The Court shall, for the purposes of determining whether an extended benefit is established and its value, treat any acceptance by the relevant person of the allegations set out in the statement under subsection (10) as conclusive of the matters to which it relates.
- (12) The Court shall require any relevant person served with a copy of a statement under subsection (10) to respond to each allegation in it and, in so far as he does not accept any allegation, to indicate on oath any facts upon which he proposes to rely.
- (13) The Court may treat the relevant person's failure to respond or to indicate the facts upon which he will rely as his acceptance of every allegation in the statement other than an allegation regarding whether he complied with the requirement.

44. Amount recovered under Benefit and Extended Benefit Recovery Order.

- (1) The amount to be recovered under a benefit recovery or extended benefit recovery order shall be the amount specified in the order under sections 41 and 43 or, if a certificate is issued pursuant to subsection (6), for the lesser amount specified in the certificate.
- (2) The amount specified in the order shall be paid by no later than six months following the date of the recovery order.
- (3) If the amount required to be paid by a relevant person under a confiscation order is not paid when it is required to be paid, he must pay interest on the amount for the period for which it remains unpaid, and —

 - (b) the amount of the interest must be treated as part of the amount to be paid under the confiscation order.
- (4) In the event that the order is not paid by the date identified in subsection (2), the relevant person shall serve a sentence of imprisonment in default of payment consecutively to any sentence imposed for the criminal conduct, if any, and such sentence will be determined by reference to the provisions and default table contained in the Second Schedule.
- (5) Where the Court imposes a term of imprisonment under subsection (3), it shall direct that —
 - (a) notwithstanding any term of imprisonment imposed, the unpaid amount will remain due and owing, and
 - (b) that any law regarding the remission of sentences of prisoners serving a term of imprisonment shall not apply to the term of imprisonment imposed under subsection (3).
- (6) The Court shall grant a certificate on the application of the relevant person pursuant to this section if, having regard to the facts and beliefs set out in the affidavit in support of the application and any other relevant matter that there are reasonable grounds to believe that —

 - (b) it is considered by the Court appropriate in the interests of justice to reduce the order.
- (7) An application made pursuant to subsection (5) —

- (a) must be supported by a sworn affidavit of the relevant person and of any other person upon whose evidence the relevant person proposes to rely;
 - (b) shall be served upon the enforcement authority together with any supporting evidence.

- (9) Where a certificate is granted pursuant to subsection (5), it shall specify a monetary amount equal to the total value of the financial resources held by the relevant person or subject to his effective control.
- (10) The Court may, on the application of the enforcement authority within three years after the grant of the certificate, vary or revoke it or issue a benefit recovery or extended benefit recovery order in a new amount, when —
- (a) it is made aware of facts that would have led it to a different conclusion regarding the granting of a certificate or the amount of a certificate; or
 - (b) the value of the assets held by the relevant person not yet realised increase in value or the relevant person acquires possession or control of new and additional assets which, had they been available at the date of the certificate, would have resulted in the certificate not being granted or granted for a higher amount.

DEFAULT SENTENCES FOR NON-PAYMENT OF A CONVICTION BASED CONFISCATION ORDER

- (2) In fixing the precise length of the default sentence, the Court has to consider all the circumstances and is not bound to follow an arithmetical approach.

- (3) The period in default falls to be reduced if the order has been partially complied with.
- (4) Although a Court must take into account intransigence, the Court must also take into account, in a case where the order is not for the maximum, what that maximum is.

An amount exceeding $500 but not exceeding $1,000	14 Days
